Non-Sampling Error

- Sampling error decreases with increase in sample size, whereas non-sampling error increases with increase in sample size.
- Non-sampling error is likely to be more in case of complete enumeration survey than in case of a sample survey.
- Non-sampling error can occur at every stage of planning and execution of a census or a survey. Such as:-
  - Faulty definition
  - Improper Training methodology
  - Defective methods of data collection
  - Incomplete coverage or non-response
  - Improper or ambiguous questionnaire
  - Lack of monitoring or supervision of primary staff
  - Errors during tabulation
  - Errors in data processing operations
  - Improper interpretation during analysis and report writing
